Call leans renewed at 6 per cent most of the week as the result of a temporary stringency caused primarily by the heavy government operations. Easier money is looked for the coming week which may result in a broadening of the demand for acceptances.

There has been a remarkable growth in the bank acceptance business in the United States. It is estimated that there are now about 500 accepting banks. Four years ago there were only 24. In the New York federal Reserve District alone there are 131 accepting institutions with the Richmond district second with 46 and Boston third with 45.

Rates on bankers' acceptances are unchanged, as follows:
